Philip Nicoletti

The passing of Dr. Siegfried Werthammer in Sarasota, Florida (January 2, 1983) was a particular loss to me. Dr. Werthammer had been my friend for thirty seven years. I will miss Dr. Werthammer as an individual, chess friend, and chess opponent.

Our state's chessman, I am sure, mourn the deceasement/departing of one of us. Dr. Werthammer was a vanguard in the spirit of chess in West Virginia. Dr. Siegfried was the state champion eight times, and the co-champion five times. Dr. Werthammer's championship record may be broken, but he will always be remembered as one of West Virginia's pre-eminant/dominant chess players and champions.

I and the other chess players of West Virginia have lost a unique friend, and also one who had an expertise comprehension of our chess game. West Virginia was fortunate to have him. Dr. Werthammer was a state resident when he participated in our West Virginia Chess Association Tournaments.

President, Charleston Chess Club

Information for this list came from a USCF listing of all West Virginia players. Four players on the USCF list do not appear on the above one. I believe that Alan Federl (2314) does live in WV., but I have not seen him play in any of our tournaments (I could be wrong about this). I have not heard of William McClain (1986) and Gerald Gross (1866). If anyone knows the whereabouts of either of these players drop me a line. Dr. Seigfried Werthammer (1839) died this past January in Florida. See page one for more information on Dr. Werthammer.

The average of this list is 1929, down eight points from last year. One reason for the decline is the loss of two top players to other states (Paul Harless 2181 Tn. and Carl Kiser 1996 Va.). Also, Brent Haynes appeared on last year's list, but I could not find him on any list this year.

The rating distribution given on the next page is based on the USCF provided list and the April 1983 issue of Chess Life. There were 413 on the WV list, compared to 31607 total chess players with ratings in the US. The WV list made no distinction between experienced players and those with a provisional rating. Since the West Virginia average is considerably below the national average, I would assume that a large percentage of the WV players have provisional ratings. (Donald Griffith reported in last year's top 25 list that 52.9% of the WV players had provisional ratings!)

Reading across the line starting with "Category III" this table says that there are 23 players in WV with a rating between 1500 and 1599, which comprises of 5.57 percent of all WV players; 11.17 percent of all players in the US have a rating in this interval.
